A Christmas Message

The memory of Christmases past is so precious. Christmas night is an eve filled with joy, peace and love. It is a time that reminds us of God's great love for the whole world. His message is one of peace and love for all men.

We stand amid anxieties and tensions which mar this message of peace and love, but which makes us realize that the full and final Christmas is yet to come. The series of sculptures in my office, created by Fr. Van Horn, remind us that the nativity, crucifixion and the resurrection are all one. The basic concept is that although the world is troubled, peace, joy and love can become realities.

Our prayer is that God will grant us all the Christmas spirit of justice, of good will, of sympathy and service and that these may last through the coming days of this and every New Year.

SJC Homecoming '72 "Weekend Of Winning"

Alumni Fund And Recruitment Programs At Halfway Mark

Saint Joseph's Alumni Board set two goals for 1973—$100,000 for the Alumni Fund and 100 new students for the alumni recruitment program—during its July meeting. At the halfway mark, both the Alumni Fund and the recruiting program have generated optimism for realizing the goals.

"It is impossible to compare last year's fund drive with our '73 program," says Jim Madden, Alumni Vice-President for Financial Affairs. "The '72 fiscal year began in July, whereas this year it was June. Secondly, the fund raising program has been revamped. The change of fiscal dates is what causes the comparison problem. Last year's record figure of $75,000 stood at $16,000 after the first six months. That figure already included the phone-a-thons, a mailer, matching grants and the 'end-of-the-year deduction' checks. The $24,000 in the '73 Fund does not include any of that.

The first '73 phone-a-thon was held during the final week of November at the Blue-Cross-

Blue-Shield offices in Chicago. The program was directed by B. Todd Adams '54 a vice-president with Blue Cross. In the four days of phoning by 59 alumni and SJC students, 1447 alumni were contacted resulting with a pledge total of $10,447.50. Along with the pledges, four more alumni became Fellows."

The Alumni Recruiting program has already contacted more prospective students at this point than were contacted all last year. The 82 SJC alumni recruiters in 14 states have contacted almost 400 high school seniors. Last year, 160 were contacted. There have already been 85 returns from the alumni with promising results. "If percentages hold true, we should do exceptionally well," says Jerry Walker, Alumni V.P. for Recruiting.

Seven Grads Cited For College Service

How do you describe a Saint Joe Homecoming? Well, it begins with floats—plenty of them—in the parade which kicked off the October 7-8 festivities; the crowning of Miss Karen Kinsella (senior, Wilmette, Ill.) as queen and a thrilling 8-7 Puma victory.

Add numerous awards—Jerry La Fontain '35 received the Alumni Service Award, the naming of six charter members to the Dean's Alliance: Bob Bridge '64, Jim Buckley '48, Dave Ecklerle '65, Joe Hemminger '67, Fred Hollinden '53 and Jerry Walker '59; Bill Reagan (junior, Lorain, O.) won the Rudy Volz Memorial Award as MVP in the Homecoming game.

Gently mix 800 returning alumni into numerous receptions, reunions, dinners and dances and sit back and enjoy the '72 spectacle.

Trustees, Students Meet For A Unique Campus Experience

The Nov. 3-5 trustees meeting on campus marked a milestone for the SJC family, as trustees, administrators, staff members, faculty and students met in an informal atmosphere to discuss and share a mutual concern to work for the betterment of the college.

The meeting, the first fall session to be held on campus, marked the appointment of four new members to the Saint Joseph's College Board of Trustees, including the first two women to serve as board members. They are: Mrs. Kathryn Boesch of Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Alice Ward of Bay City, Mich. Mrs. Boesch has had two children attend SJC: Charles '62 and Richard '68. Two of Mrs. Ward's children attended Saint Joe's, Nick '72 and Kathy '73. Also appointed were Albert C. Fellingner, '52 alumnus from Glencoe, Ill., and Mr. Thomas Juettner from Palatine, Ill. Mr. Juettner has a son attending SJC, Tim, a sophomore.

G. Richard Schreiber '43, Chairman of the Board, announced Mr. Lee Gary, trustee since 1962 and benefactor of Saint Joseph's, has been named a trustee emeritus.

College or Politics? — Charles Halleck, former U.S. Congressman and a member of the Saint Joseph's College Board of Trustees, chats with SJC coed Yvonne Tussing (soph., Lima, O.) during the November 3-5 meetings on campus.

The 88-member Saint Joseph's College Marching Band performs its halftime show for more than 60,000 fans at the Chicago Bear-Green Bay Packer football game Nov. 12 in Chicago's Soldier Field.

New Coach, Tough Schedule Face 1973 Basketball Pumas

"Saint Joseph's is the only school faced with a massive rebuilding job," says the Pumas' official NCAA basketball guide for 1972-73, rating the Pumas' chances in the Indiana Collegiate Conference. In gentlemanly journalistic tones, "massive rebuilding" is synonymous with the role of an underdog, a team from which very little is expected.

"We won't let a prediction like that bother us," says the Pumas' new coach John Weinert. "In fact, it might be good that we're regarded as underdogs, because it will take some of the pressure off our admittedly young team."

Plans for 1972-73 necessarily start with the five returning lettermen, paced by two regulars from last season, 6-6 forward Dave Huneryager (junior, Hammond, Ind.) and a 6-5 center Jim Thordsen (sophomore, Reparto Metropo, P.R.). Huneryager fired a nifty .552 from the field while averaging 13.7 points and 6.3 rebounds per game last season. His scoring and rebounding punch will be a key factor this winter.

Thordsen, a freshman crowd pleaser last year, is SJC's first Olympian ever, as he played in Munich this summer with his native Puerto Rican team. A sharp-shooter supreme, he averaged 10.8 points and 7.8 rebounds per game last year, while blistering the nets at .609 from the field and .832 from the charity strips.

Additional front line size comes in the form of the third letterman, 6-7 center Rick Vonderhaar (senior, Cincinnati, O.), who finished with a 5.3 scoring average last year. Letterman guards Mark Muterspaw (6-0) (senior, Xenia, Ohio) and Bill Hogan (6-0) (junior, Hamilton, O.) also return, bringing 6.8 and 5.7 scoring averages.

Several performers should give strong challenges for starting jobs on the front line. Up from the 1971-72 junior varsity comes Steve Scharrer (junior, Flint, Mich.) and Alan Rockwell (sophomore, DeMotte, Ind.). Scharrer led the jayvees in scoring (15.9) and rebounding (12.5). Rockwell, a 6-5 forward, scored at a 15.8 clip and averaged 8.9 rebounds.

Three freshmen join the race for starting jobs on the hardwood, and they all could see plenty of action this season. Forwards Kyle Wiggs (6-6) (Ripon, Wis.) and Pedro Santana (6-4) (Brooklyn, N.Y.) are rangy, strong and quick—providing SJC with ideal scoring and rebounding potential in the corners. John Jelks (6-0) (Hammond, Ind.) provides back court savvy at guard. Junior Oliver Mitchell (6-4) (Detroit, Mich.) adds strength and depth at forward and sophomore Rich Badovinich (6-0) (Griffith, Ind.) in another fast-breaking guard.

Weinert's forces will face many challenges this year, not the least of which is the toughest schedule in school history. The Indiana Collegiate Conference provides 12 rugged games with six foes on a home-and-home basis. Add to this list such major powers as Purdue, Toledo, DePaul, Northwestern and Memphis State, and it's easy to see that SJC has its work nicely cut out.

Puma foes will have trouble telling the identical twin Keane boys apart. The new "twin towers" are 6-6 Joe (left) and John (right) . . . or is it the other way around? The Keanes are the sons of SJC alumnus Joe Keane '46 of Chicago.

Benefit Game Nets $1,200 For Charity

Saint Joseph's College closed its '72 football season against Illinois Benedictine the same way it did the year before. SJC won the game, knocked the Benedictine Eagles out of a bowl bid and raised money for the Catholic Charities of the Gary, Indiana diocese.

Sponsored by the Northwest Indiana Knights of Columbus the rematch was played November 17 at Morton High School football field in Hammond, Indiana. A crowd of 3,500 saw Saint Joe win the contest by a lopsided 47 to 25 score. In that game Puma quarterback Bill Reagan (junior, Lorain, O.) threw four touchdown passes and ran for another score to be named the game's MVP.

But regardless of the outcome, the second annual charity game netted $12,000 for the two colleges and the Catholic Charities.

Catholic Charities Director, Fr. Joseph Semanick said "the funds will be used to help the aged."

Myron Newland (sr., Indianapolis), Puma captain and linebacker, right, receives congratulations from assistant coach George Post '65, left, and head coach Bill Jennings for being selected football's MVP for the '72 season. Although the Pumas finished with a 4-4-1 record, Newland anchored the defense with 113 tackles in 9 games. He was named along with two other Pumas—offensive tackle Terry Taphorn (sr., Indianapolis) and offensive guard Kedric Beard (jr., Angola, Ind.)—to the All-Conference first team.

Abe's Loss Is SJC's Gain

Private colleges and universities have been known to always utilize every means available to raise money for its educational needs. Some have held auctions, carnivals and even sold candy. Well, Saint Joseph's College has always prided itself on its fund raising ability. After all, SJC did do the precedent-setting TIME ad. But as the following news item explains, the college, for once, has to take a back seat to someone else's fund raising originality. Chicago Bear head coach Abe Gibrón has proven himself to be a Saint Joe benefactor of unequalled dedication and proportions.

"Kup's Column" in the Chicago Sun-Times reported that Saint Joseph's College is going to be $5,000 richer because Abe Gibrón, the Chicago Bears' coach, got down to 295 pounds by Thanksgiving. Kup says, "He limited his Thanksgiving feast to one turkey."

Abe cut his weight to collect a $5,000 bet from "a prominent Indiana businessman," not otherwise identified, who is giving the money to the college.

Kup also says that this is the second time Gibrón has had to "make weight" for the Bears. In 1958, seeking to make guard, George Halas agreed to sign Gibrón if he could reduce from 307 to 250 by the time of training camp in Rensselaer. Abe did it then, too.

Introduction by Jerry Gladu, Director of Development

As I mentioned in the last issue of CONTACT, this column will feature guest authors writing on the philosophy behind, and various methods of making "planned gifts" to Saint Joseph's College. These authors will be telling you how "planned gifts" can benefit you and your family as well the ways in which these gifts will benefit the college. Our first guest author is Edward A. Massura, tax manager in the tax department of Arthur Andersen & Co., Chicago, faculty member at the DePaul Law School and Saint Joseph's grad of 1960. Mr. Massura graduated from DePaul Law School in 1963, was admitted to the bar in that same year and became a Certified Public Accountant in 1967. He, his wife Carol and their three children live in the Oakbrook area of Chicago.

Whether he realizes it or not, every Saint Joseph's alumnus has a plan for the disposition of his estate in the event of his death. Either his plan is an up-to-date, legal WILL which assures him that his estate will be distributed according to his wishes, or the plan consists of the arbitrary procedures governed by state laws of intestacy which will distribute his estate in quite a different manner than he would probably have wanted. It is a regrettable fact that a proportion of college graduates estimated as high as fifty percent do not have properly drawn WILLs.

Once an individual completes his education and embarks upon a profession, the need for careful financial planning becomes imperative. Particular attention should be given to guaranteeing an adequate cash flow to him and his family in his working years and the development of an estate plan which will provide for his wife and family, or other beneficiaries, in the event of his death.

The cornerstone of any estate plan is a current WILL. Since a person's financial condition changes as he grows older, his WILL must be updated periodically to reflect his current desires. The only manner in which this can be accomplished is by a systematic program of review.

A WILL should provide for a number of things. Among these are:

- (1) The payment of debts, administration expenses, and death taxes;
- (2) The disposition of assets, either outright or in trust, consistent with his intentions;
- (3) The naming of an executor and/or trustee capable of carrying out his desires as expressed in his WILL.

In addition to providing for his family, a WILL is also an ideal device for giving property to a charity. Since gifts of cash or property which are made to charities, such as Saint Joseph's College, reduce estate taxes, the effective cost of the gift is reduced.

There is also a method whereby an individual's family and a charity can "share" the same assets. A WILL can provide for some property to be willed into a charitable remainder trust which will pay income to the wife or children of the individual during their lives, and after their deaths the remaining assets will be distributed to the favorite charity of the individual. The tax rules require a specific type of trust for contributions of this type otherwise the current deduction for charitable contributions will not be allowed. Prior to setting up a charitable remainder trust, your tax attorney should be consulted. If the qualifying charitable remainder trust is properly set up, a charitable deduction can be taken on the estate tax return in an amount equal to the actuarial value of the remainder interest of the property. Such a deduction will reduce Federal estate taxes; thus there will be more cash and property to put in the trust. A charitable gift of this type, reducing estate taxes, can possibly avoid forced sales of land or other assets which generally result in lower selling prices.

Since a person's desire for the care of his family and the distribution of his assets to charities such as Saint Joseph's College, are highly individual; and since in the absence of a WILL or other testamentary document, an estate passes under the local laws governing such matters, it is important that one insure that his intentions are set out in a carefully planned WILL. The benefits to be derived from such a course of action are immense. The consequences which can result from the failure to have a WILL, or to have a WILL which has currently been updated to reflect the desires and intentions of an individual, may be disastrous.

SJC accounting-finance, business administration and computer science alumni participated in three separate career days during the first semester to give students a better understanding of major programs and job opportunities upon graduation. Pictured above are the participants in the computer science seminar. (Left to right) Bob Vighi '72, Jim Brown '72, John Degenhardt '70, Joe Lambke '60 and Rod Jackson '72. # There's something more important than sex appeal.

No! We're not a convent. And we're not anti-male. Our campus is crawling with boys (3 for every girl). But we think there's far too much pressure on girls to be sexy instead of sensitive. Brains can be beautiful too. And what really makes a woman exciting is the way she thinks.

We think ideas, and learning, and interesting people can turn you head over heels in love with life.

We're not a fancy place. Our plumbing leaks occasionally, but our ideas are sound. Just look at what we've listed here and you can see we have something going that most colleges and universities can't give you because they're too big.

17 to 1 student/professor ratio. That's real professors (40% are PhDs) not grad students or TV monitors speaking to you. Students feel free to spend an hour or an evening with their professor. Last April, students spent a whole weekend at the psychology prof's house for a seminar on contemporary problems.

Students who know and care about each other. We're small enough to be a real Christian family so that when one of the students couldn't afford to go on tour with the band the others pitched in and paid his way.

A revolutionary curriculum to meet these revolutionary times. Besides your major, you study world problems. Then how history has treated those problems. How philosophy, science, the arts might solve the problems. You hear professors from other departments, who you might normally never meet. As a graduate we think you'll know a lot more about your world after living in our world.

"I know, you're going to talk me into being a nun, right?"

Campus activities that don't leave you out. For instance, if you're a freshman, you get a lot better chance to really be somebody. You want to act? You act. You want to be in the band? There's room. Want to write? The newspaper needs you. We're only 1200 students. Every organization needs help. We're not quite sure where we'd put you on the football team, though.

Chicago and Indianapolis close by. The best theatre, music, drama and sports events in the midwest no more than 1½ hour drive.

Transferring and cutting the red tape. So you're already in a college somewhere else. Lots of people make that mistake. Write us, we'll figure something out to get you in here.

Notice how all these things point to the fact that we are small enough to care about your opinion?

Whether you're Catholic or not, why not visit us and look around? Or, just mail in the coupon for more information and scholarship opportunities.

Seventeen Ad Generates 1200 Replies

Saint Joseph's College has received more than 1,200 replies to date from its eye-catching advertisement in "Seventeen" magazine, (reproduced above) reports Gerald Gladu, director of development.

Gladu said the number of responses exceeded his expectations; most of the inquiries have been by sophomores or juniors in high school, although they range from 8th graders to students already enrolled at another college.

Mail circulation run for the ad is about three million. This is one of several innovative advertisements in the mass media by the college, beginning with the precedent-setting advertisement in "Time" several years ago.

The low-key ad about coeds and Saint Joseph's is another product of the talents of SJC alumnus and trustee Tom DeMint '59.

Anyone wishing full-size reprints of the Seventeen ad may obtain them by writing to Office of Development, Saint Joseph's College, Rensselaer, Ind. 47978.

What's In A Name? - A Student!

You can help Saint Joseph's by letting us know about college-bound young people in your community. If you can provide names and addresses of student prospects, we can take it from there. The names can be of students from the freshman to the senior high school level.

Just take a minute and think about who you know that might be a SJC candidate. Then jot down the information (name, address, high school and graduation year) and send it to:
